It has been used equally successfully on other types of emotional blockages and various trauma..

This not only allows one to release negative experiences in this life but also in past lives.

It requires the participation of the client and the class will give each one the opportunity to heal and be healed.

The experience can be quite intense, so come with a knowing that this is more than just classroom instruction.

A professional attitude is a necessity and all experience of emotional releases in the class must be kept confidential.

The practical experience in the class is to allow you to be able to use this work in your practice with your clients. You will not only receive a treatment but you will also learn how to give one.
